MEET THE INTERIM PRESIDENT OF THE ALLIANCE

Kent Tyler Wardell was born in McKeesport, Pennsylvania. He attended Duquesne University in Pittsburgh from 1960-1964. He was trained as a secondary education teacher and obtained a Bachelor of Science Degree.

His interest in special education grew and he attended the University of Pittsburgh for preparation as a classroom teacher of the blind. He successfully completed this program.

In June of 1965 Mr. Wardell entered Graduate School at Western Michigan University to become an Orientation and Mobility Specialist. He graduated in April of 1966.

Post graduate work has included training in Electronic Guidance Devices for the Visually Impaired.

Mr. Wardell worked extensively with Visually Impaired school students in the Miami and Ft. Lauderdale area of Florida.

He has also worked with Visually Impaired adults at the Cleveland Society for the Blind during the years 1968 - 1970.

From 1970 to the present Mr. Wardell has been an instructor in the Orientation and Mobility training program at California State University at Los Angeles.

He has written an extensive textbook chapter on the topic of Architectural and Environmental Concerns of the Visually Impaired. He has had articles published in the Journal of Visual Impairment and Blindness, Long Cane News, Blindness Annual, and Journal of Rehabilitation.

Mr. Wardell has many professional affiliations and maintains an active leadership role in many organizations. Current activity includes:

Mr. Casey has been Superintendent of the Oklahoma School for the Blind since 1979. His extensive experience in education of blind persons made him a logical candidate for Vice-President of the Interim Alliance. In that capacity he has helped to coordinate education and rehabilitation in the new organization. One of his chief functions as Vice-President has been to cooperate as Co-Chairperson with William F. THE LASER CANE

"THE LASER CANE PROVIDES ME WITH AN EXTENSION OF ENVIRONMENTAL KNOWLEDGE THAT ISN'T AVAILABLE FROM OTHER TRAVEL AID. IT HAS RAISED MY CONFIDENCE, OPENED NEW TERRITORIES AND GIVEN ME A FREEDOM WHICH I HAVE NOT HAD SINCE GOING BLIND TWENTY YEARS AGO."

Jim Swed, Director of Development, Associated Services for the Blind. Philadelphia, PA.

VOCATIONAL SPECIALIST FOR THE VISUALLY IMPAIRED

A MODEL GRADUATE TRAINING PROGRAM IN REHABILITATION OF THE BLIND

SUMMARY OF PROGRAM

The Vocational Specialist program is designed to train professionals to function as Rehabilitation Counselors, Vocational Evaluators, or Placement Specialists who have training specifically oriented towards blind and visually impaired persons. The master's program is a unique interdisciplinary training program that involves 51 semester hours — 42 of course work and a 9 hour, full semester internship. Doctoral degree programs may also be pursued through the Department. Courses include training in the following skills as they relate to the blind person; counseling, vocational assessment, medical information, job placement, orientation and mobility training, work adjustment and personal-social adjustment. The program emphasizes both classroom and experiential learning.

RESOURCES IN LEARNING

Several valuable resources are available to aid students in learning: a Vocational Evaluation Center on campus serves clients on an ongoing basis; the Rehabilitation Research and Training Center in Blindness is located at MSU and a close relationship between this center and the training program exists; local rehabilitation agencies for the blind share a close relationship with the MSU program; and an Institute on Aging on campus provides intensive training in this area. Additionally, faculty are competent, caring individuals who have established regional and national reputations for their contributions to the field. The program is accredited by the Council on Rehabilitation Education (CORE). Upon graduation students are eligible for National professional certification as rehabilitation counselors and vocational evaluators.

STUDENT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Student aid is available in several forms, including: (1) traineeships and (2) graduate assistantships in the Research and Training Center in Blindness (RTC). Traineeships are available from the Rehabilitation Services Administration that pay tuition and monthly living expenses. These are awarded on a competitive basis. Some graduate assistantships through the RTC are also available.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Several types of Specialists are needed to facilitate rehabilitation of persons with visual disabilities including: vocational evaluators, rehabilitation counselors, and job placement specialists. Such individuals are employed by rehabilitation and related agencies. The interdisciplinary approach in this training program provides students with professional skills that are especially desired by rehabilitation and related agencies for the blind and allow employment in three specialty areas. This results in enhanced student employability.

Today at least one million adults over 55 with vision problems receive little or no rehabilitation services. For more than 10 years the Center for Independent Living (CIL) has been developing and testing innovative ways of providing effective rehabilitation services to hundreds of such individuals in order to demonstrate that, with basic adjustment education in daily living skills, these people can maintain themselves in their own communities free of costly institutions and nursing homes.

So - CIL decided to expand its community outreach activities in an effort to serve more clients on a no-cost, at-home, self-help basis. This new program is known as the CIL SELF-HELP NETWORK.

EASY TO CARRY, PACK AND MOVE.
Magnilink sits in a handsome case. It is easy to carry and pack, and is insensitive to shock. The case, itself, also serves as a small shelf on which the TV set can be placed. The combination of Magnilink and a black-and-white TV forms a unit that provides a simple means of assisting the visually impaired to read, write and work. This system is also capable of being connected to a 12 V battery, should mains current not be available. And Magnilink can be used for periods of several hours without causing fatigue.

MAGNIFIES BETWEEN THREE AND FORTY TIMES.
Magnilink thus enables you to view a text, enlarged some forty times! Even visually impaired with very little residual vision can thus derive great benefit.

Magnilink provides a sharp and steady picture with excellent contrast. The system can be employed together with an existing TV set, and, using a modified TV set, a completely flickerfree picture is obtained by means of a switch. Negative text, i.e. white-on-black, is also possible; and this feature is particularly suitable for the photophobic.

A simple procedure allows the picture to be masked so that the rows of text can be followed more easily.

Magnilink ensures a high reading speed with a low degree of lag and a great depth of focus which makes it possible to read an entire catalogue without altering the focus setting. Another advantage is that the picture is not retained on the screen once the camera is removed. Not even after the camera has been "viewing" the same text for a prolonged period.

HANDS FREE TO DO SOMETHING ELSE.
Magnilink is a highly advanced system, both practically and technically. The equipment is very robust in design, particularly the various controls. The camera tubes will not be damaged if the distance telescope is pointed at the sun or a strong light.

The user is not restricted to any special position thanks to the hand-held optical head, but can relax in peace and quiet, reclining comfortably in a chair reading a book or newspaper. The camera can also be attached to the case, with the extra illumination on, so that the hands are free to work with something else.

The basic system is built around a hand-held optical head which provides a high-quality picture. The head is suitable for the vast majority of everyday chores. Should Magnilink be required for more advanced tasks such as typewriting, seeing at a distance, connection to a computer terminal or reading a microfiche, then all that is required is to change the head.

IF THE WORST HAPPENS.
The case is so small and handy that it can be sent by post if anything needs to be repaired or replaced.

NOTES

KEYNOTE SPEAKER - EDWARD C. FRIERSON, Ph.D.

Dr. Ed Frierson is now a visiting lecturer at major universities throughout the United States and is much in demand as a conference and convention speaker. His major activity, however, is that of a "teacher teacher" as he offers a variety of unusual in-service training programs for teachers right in their own local districts. Formerly, Dr. Frierson was the coordinator of two doctoral level training programs in special education at Peabody College of Vanderbuilt University (The area of Learning Disabilities and the area of Gifted Education) and he served for 14 years as the Executive Director of The Nashville Learning Center, an educational center which offered a wide range of services to families.

Dr. Frierson is on the Editorial Advisory Board of Highlights for Children and is an associate editor of the journal, Exceptional Children. Dr. Frierson's own publications include more than fifty articles in professional and lay journals, chapters in nine books and reviews in The National Society for the Study of Education Yearbook and in American Education Research Association Research Review. He is also Senior Editor of the popular text Educating Children with Learning Disabilities which has been used by over two hundred colleges and universities.

Dr. Frierson is also a past president of The Council for Learning Disabilities of the International Council for Exceptional Children. He is a member of the Professional Advisory Board of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) and was a recipient of the ACLD President's Distinguished Service Award. Among his other honors, Dr. Frierson was one of only four persons ever to be awarded an honorary lifetime membership in the Easter Seal Society of Oklahoma for his meritorious service to handicapped learners.

Dr. Frierson is married and has six (6) children including two sets of twins!

What does it take to make a quality product?

It takes a well-trained, highly-skilled and conscientious labor force that has pride in its work.

Gary Marshall is such a worker. At the Dallas Lighthouse for the Blind in Texas, Gary received the training he needed to become a productive, industrious worker. He and more than 5,400 other blind men and women employed in special industries across the country manufactured over $200 million worth of quality products. Most of these are sold to the Federal Government, under the Javits-Wagner-O'Day Act. This legislation, administered by National Industries for the Blind (NIB), is a Government program that puts people to work and satisfies its need for quality products.
